

Because of my checkoff,
I can see a world of opportunity.

Soy biodiesel is the fastest-growing renewable fuel in the country.

Farming isn't easy. But our soybean checkoff takes some weight off my shoulders. My checkoff investments are being used to develop and promote soy biodiesel. All the hard work has really made a difference. People around the world are realizing the benefits of soy biodiesel. And, I can see that soybean checkoff marketing efforts are paying off.

With the help of our soybean checkoff and my soybeans, biodiesel will help build a cleaner, more productive world for generations to come. I couldn't be more proud.

"For more than a year now, I have used soy biodiesel to heat my poultry houses and to fuel all my farm equipment. Using soy biodiesel fuel will increase the demand for soybeans, and that's good for the soybean industry and good for America."
